

ANTHROPOLOGY – 1733

The theories, methods, and insights of anthropology are applicable to a wide range of endeavors. The anthropology major is designed for students who realize relevance of anthropology to their specific educational goals but who wish to major in areas directly related to their career choices. The requirements allow maximum flexibility to meet the specific career and educational goals of the individual student, e.g., a biology major may wish to concentrate on those courses which deal with culture as communication.

REQUIRED COURSES: (6 credits)

ANT 100 Human Origins 3 credits

ANT 101 Understanding Culture 3 credits

ELECTIVE COURSES: (12 credits)

One upper division physical anthropology or archaeology course

One upper division cultural anthropology course

Two other upper division courses under advisement

TOTAL NUMBER OF CREDITS: 18 credit hours

ENTRY TO MINOR: No requirements